Teaching

T1

European Union Law and Policies

Professor in charge: Aline Beltrame de Moura

Year/type of study: 1st cycle (Undergraduate)

Period: August to December 2020

The course aims to examine European Union policies and law in order to understand how this process of regional integration has become the main reference in terms of integrationist policies in the world and what challenges it is currently facing given the geopolitical changes that have taken place in recent years due to the economic and financial crisis and the intense migratory flow in the region. The course seeks to unite theory and reality through the use of a methodology that combines the theoretical exposition of the professor with the participation in debates and discussions generated from news brought by the students and that have been conveyed by the media over that week.

The course offers a multidisciplinary view of the European phenomenon, analysing not only the legal aspects of integration, but also economic and political elements that together constitute what we now understand as the European Union. In the short term, the impact of offering this module is to promote the dissemination of the knowledge on the European subjects to the students, instigating them to deep their studies through the writing of research papers on the subject and the participation in groups of research. In the long term, the course intends to stimulate these students to further their studies in this area at master's and PhD level. In addition, the module will provide the necessary basis for students to undertake academic exchanges at one of the more than 100 European Universities that are accredited to the Law Undergraduate Program.

T2

International Private law and European Procedural Law

Professor in charge: Aline Beltrame de Moura

Year/type of study: 3rd cycle (Postgraduate)

Period: June to September 2019

The course intends to provide students with critical knowledge on the general problems of the subject matter and on the different methods used, in order to offer them a whole view of the European private international law system, particularly, the recent and important developments of the European Union law in this area.

The impact of the study of the Europeanization of private international law turns out to be relevant not only because it is a channel of disseminating and for deepening the knowledge on this subject among Brazilian professionals, enabling them to eventually act in the European market, but also because it contributes to the improvement of the Mercosur system.

The Module has allowed UFSC to deliver courses on different levels, from undergraduate to postgraduate programs.

E-BOOK PUBLICATION: “EUROPEAN PRIVATE INTERNATIONAL LAW: BETWEEN HARMONIZATION AND FRAGMENTATION”

The CCJ/UFSC Jean Monnet Module launched the book “Private European International Law: between harmonization and fragmentation” The studies presented were carefully prepared by professors from Brazil and abroad, specialists in themes of private international and EUROPEAN law, involving fifteen partner universities and research institutes, seven of which are foreigners.

The book was produced with funding obtained from the European Commission under the Jean Monnet Module instituted at the Center for Legal Sciences at the Federal University of Santa Catarina, Project (600067-EPP-1-2018-1-BR-EPPJMO-MODULE). The CCJ/UFSC Jean Monnet Module actions aim to promote excellence in teaching, research, and extension in the field of European Union studies worldwide, encouraging the publication and dissemination of academic research.

The present effort, therefore, proposes to disseminate the results of the studies promoted by the research projects developed by the CCJ/UFSC Jean Monnet Module, which aims to analyze the increasing normative regulation of private relations that have elements of strangeness on the part of the institutions of the European Union and the challenges faced for the regional harmonization of these norms of private international law. The researches presented here attempt to lead the reader to reflect on the new directions and challenges about the contours and transformations of private international law today, taking into account the particularities and potentialities of its regulation at the national, international level and before the processes of regional integration.

Certainly, the European Union fosters a movement towards uniformity at the regional level, once it has developed, over the past few years, an enviable range of regulations. These rules are meant to promote the regulation not only of connection standards but also of material rules that solve international problems which affect individuals who move freely in the European area of freedom, security, and justice.

The book had the contribution of professors and researchers Beatriz Campuzano Díaz, from the University of Sevilla (Spain); Larry A. DiMatteo, from the University of Florida (United States); Koji Takahashi, Doshisha University (Japan); Mario Torres Jarrín, from the European Institute of International Studies (Sweden); Shaun Riordan, from the Clingendael Institute (Netherlands); Nuno Cunha Rodrigues, from the University of Lisbon (Portugal); Luigi Fumagalli, from Università degli Studi di Milano (Italy); Christian Armando Carbajal Valenzuela, from the University of Lima (Peru); Jamile Bergamaschine Mata Diz and Rodrigo Tadeu Guimarães Jales, from the Federal University of Minas Gerais; Augusto Jaeger Junior and Mariana Sebalhos Jorge, from the Federal University of Rio Grande do Sul; Gustavo Ferraz de Campos Monaco, from the University of São Paulo; Carmen Tiburcio, from the State University of Rio De Janeiro; Aline Beltrame de Moura, Gustavo Becker Monteiro, Leticia Mulinari Gnoatton, Rafaela Hörmann and Alisson Guilherme Zeferino, from the Federal University of Santa Catarina; Patricia Grazziotin Noschang and Caroline Andreis de Oliveira, from the University of Passo Fundo; and Frederico Eduardo Zenedin Glitz, from Unicuritiba and Unochapecó, which made possible the establishment of different perspectives and analyzes, but who at the same time complement and value the exchange of knowledge in favor of the construction of critical and reflective legal knowledge.

PUBLICATION OF THE PROCEEDINGS OF THE I JEAN MONNET
MODULE SEMINAR

As an outcome of Research 1, we are glad to announce that the I Jean Monnet Module Seminar proceedings “Challenges of the harmonization of the European International Private Law” has been published. The publication was coordinated by professor Aline Beltrame de Moura, and the edition of the proceedings was in charge of the master degree students from PPGD/UFSC Bettina gomes Omizzolo and Adrian Amaral.

The European Commission held financial support through the CCJ/UFSC Jean Monnet Module, and EMais publisher underpinned its publication. Professor Aline Beltrame de Moura was in charge of its coordination. The Jean Monnet activities aim at fostering a high-quality profile in teaching, research and extension in the field of European Union studies worldwide.

In this opportunity, we congratulate all those who have contributed with the expansion of the studies in international private law. We count on everyone’s engagement in further events.

II SEMINAR OF THE JEAN MONNET MODULE: EUROPEAN ENVIRONMENTAL LAW FOR WATER, ENERGY AND FOOD

The CCJ/UFSC Jean Monnet Module, along with the Postgraduate Program in Law at the Federal University of Santa Catarina and with the support of the CAPES-PrInt Program, the Group for Advanced Studies in Environment and Economics in International Law and the UFSC/CNPq Group of Research in Private International Law, were pleased to announce the II Jean Monnet Module Seminar: “European Environmental Law for Water, Energy and Food” that took place on March 11, 2020.

The speakers addressed topics related to international environmental law and the European Union's environmental policy regarding the issues of water, energy and food. To this end, the event was attended by academics from Brazilian and foreign universities, in order to promote a greater debate on the topics.

A Workshop was held for a presentation of abstracts sent by undergraduate and graduate students meant to be published in the form of event proceedings promoted by the European Commission's Erasmus + Program. Guidelines for submitting papers can be found here.

It is important to stress that the publication of the Proceedings of the II Jean Monnet Module Seminar is an outcome of Research 2 “European Environmental Law and the Water-Energy-Food Nexus”. The Proceedings were published in August 2020.

on Brazilian international trade relations at PPGD/UFSC.

The lecture was ministered by Joachim Jakobsen, counselor of the Trade Section of the Delegation of the European Union to Brazil, and was attended by Law undergraduate and graduate students at UFSC and other interested students.

On 17 October, the CCJ/UFSC Jean Monnet Module organized a lecture on the EU-Mercosur Free Trade Agreement and its impacts

5. UFSC students take part in the second round of EU simulations in Brazil

From 10 to 11 October, Brasilia hosted the Second EU Simulation in Brazil. The students from UFSC Law School Jaqueline Cardoso and Welinton Pacheco represented the University and were accompanied by professor Aline Beltrame de Moura.

The Simulation was promoted by the European Union in partnership with the Jean Monnet Project, to which professor Aline Beltrame de Moura is coordinator at UFSC. The issue of the simulation was related to a Free Trade Agreement negotiated by the Council of the EU, in which undergraduate and postgraduate students from more than 30 Brazilian universities participated.

Among the presents were the EU ambassador to Brazil Ignacio Ybáñez and the Brazilian ambassador and former president of Instituto Rio Branco Paulo Roberto de Almeida. The event took place during two intensive days, and it was an opportunity for UFSC students to acquire more knowledge, once they were international representatives debating important matters that led to the conclusion of many documents and one final resolution to the European Commission.

6. Jean Monnet Module at the XXIII Legal Week

From 28 to 31 October, the Academic Center XI of February in cooperation with research groups from CCJ/UFSC held the XXIII Legal Week.

The Jean Monnet Module participated on the 29 October at 10 o'clock at de Councils' Room, presenting the panel "The Fragmentation of International Law and the Role of the EU and Latin America". Among the presents for the presentation were professor Maurizio Arcari from Università degli Studi di Milano-Bicocca, professor Daniela Fisichella from Università degli Studi di Catania, both with simultaneous translation, and professor Lucas Carlos Lima from Universidade Federal de Minas Gerais – UFMG.

On 4 and 5 November 2019, GEArb UFSC, in partnership with the CCJ/UFSC Jean Monnet Module, promoted the course: International arbitration of foreign investment - Brazil and the reform proposals in the European Union.

The course was ministered by Christian Carbajal Valenzuela, who is a lawyer specializing in International Law, Arbitration, and Protection of Foreign Investment graduated from the Pontifical Catholic University of Peru with a master's degree from the University of Warwick in England.

8. Participation in the XXIII CCJ UFSC's Legal Week.

The Jean Monnet Module promoted a panel for CAXIF's Legal Week on "The Fragmentation of International Law and the role of the European Union and Latin America".

There were presentations by Prof. Dr. Maurizio Arcari from the Università de Studi di Milano-Bicocca, by Prof. Daniela Fisichella from Università degli Studi di Catania and Prof. Dr. Lucas Lima of the Federal University of Minas Gerais - UFMG. We thank everyone for their presence and participation!

9. 30 years of Jean Monnet

On 4 November, professor Aline Beltrame de Moura made herself present at the celebration date of 30-Years of Activity of Jean Monnet, which took place in São Paulo.

10. Events in Minas Gerais

At the beginning of November, Professor Aline Beltrame de Moura participated in two major events in Minas Gerais representing CCJ/UFSC Jean Monnet Module.

The first was the inauguration of the Jean Monnet Center of Excellence at UFMG, coordinated by Jamile Mata Diz at a round table discussion with Ramsés Wessel, Jorge Fontoura, and Liliana Bertoni.

She also participated in the VII International Seminar "National and International Courts and the Defense of Fundamental Rights in the Risk Society" at the University of Itaúna.

11. CCJ/UFSC Jean Monnet Module supports the 1st Congress of International Law of the OAB / SC

On 12 February 2020, the OAB / SC Law and International Relations Commission will hold the event “1st International Law Congress”, with the support of the CCJ/UFSC Jean Monnet Module. The event promoted the debate on the current challenges of international law in legal practice and was attended by specialized professionals to address the issues.

The congress had five panels, whose themes were ‘Aviation Contracts’; ‘International Smarts Contracts’; International Legal Cooperation in Brazil and the European Union; ‘The Environmental Immigrant and the Role of Diplomatic Protection’; ‘International Adoption’; and ‘Trade Disputes and Foreign Investment in the World Trade Organization’.

Among the panelists were the American lawyer specialized in legal, contractual and regulatory issues related to the aviation and aeronautics industry, Mark Atwood; the Bulgarian lawyer specialized in International Law, Commercial Arbitration and Litigation and Compliance, Evgeny Minchev; the professor of Public International Law at the University of Del Rosario (Bogotá / Colombia), member of the American Bar and International BAR Association, Walter Arévalo; the lawyer and professor of Private International Law and specialist in International Law and Business, Frederico Glitz; and the chief public defender of the Union Public Defender's Office (DPU) in Santa Catarina, Vanessa Barossi.
